Financial Times Executive Education ranking: ESMT Berlin ranks 5th globally for customized programs

ESMT Berlin is placed 5th globally for its customized programs in the Financial Times Executive Education ranking 2023. Having already ranked among the top 10 in 2022, ESMT has now joined an elite international group of business schools.

The customized programs at ESMT were ranked first in the categories “aims achieved” and “value for money” and second in “program design” and “new skills and learning” as well as third in “preparation,” “teaching methods and materials,” and “faculty.”

“The excellent ranking is a success of our entire outstanding executive education team. They have made it possible for our customized programs to be among the top 5 worldwide. This ranking also highlights ESMT’s overarching goal yet again: to provide our clients and students with the best possible educational programs,” says Harald Hungenberg, dean of programs at ESMT.
